UPSC MAINS HISTORY SOLVED PAPERS (2002-2012) 2021-09-01

Seminar paper from the year 2012 in the subject environmental sciences grade a university of Nigeria center for environmental management and control course. Environmental management and control language English. Abstract: The complexity of the paper issue means that firm conclusions are hard to draw. All paper manufactures cause harm to the environment and more often than not, the determining factors in a paper mill's environmental performance are not the process, paper type, or fiber source but the location, mill practice, and mill operator. Hence, trying to grade paper products or production techniques into some kind of hierarchy of environmental performance based solely on the manufacture process is extremely difficult yet globally, however, the environmental impact of paper is significant which has led to changes in industry and behavior at both business and personal levels with the use of modern technology such as the printing press and the highly mechanized harvesting of wood paper has become a cheap commodity everywhere. This has led to a high level of consumption and waste with the rise in environmental awareness on the pollution of the eco-system by the effluent of pulp and paper. It became imperative to run a clearer analysis of its environmental impact.

The importance of the concept of competitiveness has increased rapidly in recent years with the issues surrounding it becoming at the same time more empirically refined and theoretically complex. The focus on regions reflects the growing consensus that they are the primary spatial units that compete to attract investment and it is at the regional level that knowledge is circulated and transferred resulting in agglomerations or clusters of industrial and service sector enterprises. This growing acknowledgement of the region's role as a key spatial unit of organisation has led to attention turning to competitiveness at a more regional level. The book explores the results of the World Competitiveness Index of Regions (WCIR) covering the rankings and results of the 2014 edition. The WCIR provides a tool for analysing the development of a range of regional economies across the globe. It enables an illustration of the changing patterns of regional competitiveness on the international stage to be generated in fundamental terms. The WCIR aims to produce an integrated and overall benchmark of the knowledge capacity capability and sustainability of each region and the extent to which this knowledge is translated into economic value and transferred into the wealth of the citizens of each region.

Abstract in the globalized world of today a well-elaborated long-term oriented nation branding strategy which includes the government, the public, and the private sector as well as the nation’s citizens themselves can help nations to improve and to better control their nation image. Nation branding activities increase the country’s competitiveness in the global marketplace and help to foster the tourism arrivals inward foreign direct investment flows and exports as well as they help to attract talented workforce and students despite its growing importance most Latin American countries still have not engaged enough in the area of nation branding and mostly only focus their activities on the tourism promotion. The region’s countries have a good image regarding soft factors such as their people... and tourism attractions but have a weak image regarding their products services and investment opportunities. Brazil has a relatively good nation image in many dimensions but still has not developed an extensive nation branding strategy. Chile and Colombia are among the Latin American countries which have started to conduct more complete and advanced nation branding activities although such advances can be observed there is still a lot of improvement potential in the nation branding practices of Latin American countries.
