the dominance of insular supply side technocratic thinking has posed a major challenge to improving water governance in the face of mounting resource scarcity which has itself been accentuated by climate change during the 1990s global discourse moved from supply driven sectoral interventions to more holistic approaches to water governance as part of larger socioeconomic and environmental processes integrated water resources management iwrm emphasized demand side water management and used prices participation entitlements laws and regulations to strengthen water governance at hydrological rather than territorial units more recently there have been pleas for more integrative approaches that link land water energy food livelihoods the environment and other spheres each with its own often insular governance structure the evolution in global thinking reflects the need to meet growing human needs by innovating approaches that enhance resilience and the sustainability of landscapes the biosphere and the earth as a whole to this end the water energy food wef nexus advocates that society is better off seeking system level balance rather than maximizing sectoral objectives the nexus approach has produced prolific analytical literature over the past decade but integrating it into policy and governance faces many challenges this review paper explores these challenges by focusing on the wef nexus in action we compare the nexus in several water stressed areas of the world including iran saudi arabia mexico china bangladesh and gujarat india with additional evidence drawn from other places such as morocco and punjab haryana we synthesize these case studies to examine the actual state of play in different locations and tease out practical lessons for mainstreaming nexus thinking in water policy and governance the key conclusion is that specific contexts contingencies and constituencies drive national and sub national policies directing the outcomes towards the optimal nexus depends on the nature of the state investment in institution building and above all ingenuity in policy design and implementation to overcome resistance to change and strengthen political capital for the leaders who back such policies

I have been handed the new ball and asked to bowl the opening spell in this book of cricket commentary and commentators. It was always my ambition to play test cricket for India but I was allergic to grass, a pity because I would have been the silliest mid-on to have played test cricket. My long leg would have been a sensation there. I have never been swingers to match mine. I used to be such an agile fielder that a piece of music third man theme was composed as a tribute on the serious side as a commentator. I was always fascinated by how cricket commentary began while the journey of cricket commentary is fairly well recorded in Australia and England. The information on the subject in other eight test playing countries is scanty. This book cricket commentary commentators is a humble attempt to weave together threads scattered in different areas and diverse directions. The scope of the book has been enlarged to include not only commentators but even anchors, presenters, scorers, and statisticians while making it a compendium on commentary with these opening remarks I urge you the reader to move forward.

Groundwater governance and the water-energy-food nexus in action: a global review of policy and practice 2023-06-20

Since the waves of financial liberalization in the 1980s emerging market economies have been accessible to foreign investors altogether. They contributed up to 43.8% of the global GDP in 2018 and many of them such as China, India, Bangladesh, Philippines, Myanmar, and Vietnam from 2010 to 2019 are among the fastest growing economies in the world. Given the high economic growth the assets issued by companies in emerging markets are viewed as a new set of investment opportunities for global investors and fund managers who seek to improve the risk adjusted performance of their portfolios in addition to their risky profile due to the lack of transparency as well as stable and matured institutions. Their recent development path faces a number of challenges arising not only from the slow pace of economic reforms but also from their increased integration with the world geopolitical risks the US-China trade wars and rising policy uncertainty around the world are expected to reduce their growth potential and performance. This special issue dedicates special attention to the current dynamics of emerging financial markets as well as their perspectives of development as a key driver for sustainable firms and economies. Accordingly the focus is particularly placed on market integration and interdependence, valuations and risk management practices, and the financing means for inclusive growth.

Gathering contributions from leading academics and international trade experts from South Asia, this book is dedicated to the late Dr. Saman Kelegma, whose untimely death in June 2017 left a huge void in the field of regional economic cooperation. Keeping in mind his enduring legacy regarding regional cooperation in South Asia, it covers issues related to the challenges of deeper regional integration in South Asia and proposes strategies to address these challenges. It also offers an up-to-date, rigorous, academic analysis of various issues related to low intra-regional trade in South Asia, prevalence of tariff barriers, incidence of non-tariff measures, challenges of weak trade-related infrastructure, and the need for trade facilitation. The political economy of regional integration is highlighted, focusing on how bilateral political relations affect the integration process, the level of intra-regional investment, South Asia’s pattern of integration with the global and regional value chains, and the pattern and dominance of informal trade and alternative regional integration initiatives in South Asia, such as the bilateral, regional, and sub-regional trade agreements within and outside the region.

The resolution of conflicts based on religious and ethnic contradictions is a time-consuming process. Under certain conditions, a religious conflict can evolve into a form of expression of class estate inter-ethnic contradictions and the confrontation of states. However, we know that all religions call for peace, tolerance, and understanding. There is a need to realize that social injustice, inequality, and hostility toward any religious and ethnic group fluctuates depending on the extent to which religious and ethnic differences are linked to economic political or national interests. Bangladesh’s readymade garment industry has so far shown remarkable resilience in the face of incessant pressure from Western brands to international labour unions to the government to retain its position in global apparel exports. February 2018 issue of Fibre2Fashion discusses recent developments, challenges, and the road ahead for the Bangladesh garment industry. The differentiating characteristics of US cotton smart textiles that store data and the Milano Moda Uomo event are also covered along with the recently declared textile policy by the UP government and other regular features. Fibre2Fashion magazine, the print venture of Fibre2Fashion.com since 2011, is circulated among a carefully chosen target audience globally and reaches the desks of top management and decision-makers in the textiles, apparel, and fashion industry as one of India’s leading industry magazines for the entire textile value chain. Fibre2Fashion textile magazine takes the reader beyond the mundane headlines and analyses issues in depth.

Many take advantage of software and hardware accessibility in the English language; however, for non-native speakers, this inevitably becomes a problem specifically for the complex Bangla language, which is not easily integrated into the world of technology. Technical challenges and design issues in Bangla language processing address the difficulties as well as the overwhelming benefits associated with creating programs and devices that are accessible to the speakers of the Bangla language. Professionals, students, and researchers interested in expanding the fields of computing, information, and knowledge management and communication technologies in the non-English realm will benefit from this comprehensive collection of research.
