Market-led strategic change, 5th edition, has been fully revised and updated to reflect the realities of 21st-century business, and the practical issues for managers in the process of going to market. The world of business has changed dramatically, with a more complex environment, more demanding customers, and radical new ways of going to market. This textbook develops a value-based strategy examining the roles of market sensing, customer value, organizational change, and digital marketing in the implementation of strategy. This much anticipated new edition has been carefully updated, now with Nigel Piercy’s unique and clear-sighted views on the latest developments in marketing strategy. retaining Piercy’s insightful, witty, and provocative style, the text is supported throughout with brand new case studies from globally recognized companies, such as Uber and Volkswagen, and covering topical issues such as the legalization of marijuana and reinventing the healthcare business. Lecturers are assisted with a newly expanded collection of support materials, including PowerPoint slides for each chapter, suggested frameworks for using the case studies in teaching, and case studies from previous editions. If you’re an ambitious marketing student or practitioner, whether you are new to strategic change through marketing or just want a different view, this is the book for you. Lecturers will find this engaging, funny, thought-provoking, but always practical textbook is a sure way to get your students thinking and enthused. The higher education system in Norway generally produces graduates with good skills and labour market outcomes. This success can be largely attributed to Norway’s robust and inclusive labour market and recent higher education reforms to improve quality and maintain a competitive edge against other businesses. Companies must ensure the most effective strategies and procedures are in place. This is particularly critical in smaller business environments with fewer resources. Strategic optimization of medium-sized enterprises in the global market is a critical scholarly resource that highlights the optimization of management functions such as working capital and marketing and how to implement sustainable business management practices in the global world market. Featuring coverage on a broad range of topics such as social entrepreneurship, marketing optimization, and globalization, this book is geared towards business managers, medium-sized enterprises policy makers, business professionals, and upper-level students seeking current research on the performances of medium-sized enterprises across the world and their broader supply chain. When online learning began more than two decades ago, many universities envisioned the creation of international student markets, but this has only recently become a reality. The emergence of a global economy, advances in technology, increased market competition, reduced funding, and the growing desire for degrees from internationally recognized universities have created opportunities that promote transnational degrees. Transnational distance learning and building new markets for universities present the opportunities, methods, issues, and risks involved in extending university education across national borders. It is important to understand cultural, financial, and legal issues as well as management approaches, academic delivery options, and business considerations needed to create quality programs that are marketable and cost-effective in reaching emerging international markets. The purpose of the book is to review how to reach emerging international markets, increase access to education, and do so at a profit. Disability and the academic job market examines ableist structures in academia that inherently create obstacles to full-time employment for people with a disability based on historical and contemporary scholarship. It has been shown how disclosure of a disability can have profound repercussions for a scholar with a disability. Scholars with a disability are often inhibited from applying to or being promoted in academia because of direct discrimination, negative perception towards people with a disability, inaccessible physical and performance conditions, and social models of disability that characterize disability as unproductive, abnormal, and risky, while scholarship has addressed ableism in academia. It has not...
