Middlesex County Manual 1878 as originally projected for publication in a different connection the work consisted merely of a report upon the peculiar features of bird life in the area under consideration with biographies of the species not treated in the birds of the northwest but the author’s resources have proved to be so largely in excess of the requirements of such a report that the work has outgrown the limits of a single volume and become a full exposition of our present knowledge of the subject by the incorporation of much technical matter concerning north american ornithology at large hitherto the private possession of the author and now first made accessible to the public 2018-02-04 the unknown history of American public education at a time when Americans are debating the future of public education Johann N Neem tells the inspiring story of how and why Americans built a robust public school system in the decades between the revolution and the Civil War. It’s a story in which ordinary people in towns across the country worked together to form districts and build schoolhouses and reformers sought to expand tax support and give every child a liberal education. By the time of the Civil War, most northern states had made common schools free and many southern states were heading in the same direction. Americans made schooling a public good yet back then, like today, Americans disagreed over the kind of education needed who should pay for it and how schools should be governed. Neem explores the history and meaning of these disagreements as Americans debated teachers and students went about the daily work of teaching and learning. Neem takes us into the classrooms of yore so that we may experience public schools from the perspective of the people whose daily lives were most affected by them. Ultimately, Neem concludes public schools encouraged a diverse people to see themselves as one nation. By studying the origins of America’s public schools, Neem urges us to focus on the defining features of democratic education promoting equality nurturing human beings preparing citizens and fostering civic solidarity.
